Leading a successful and meaningful life is a dream of many. Often many of us plan our annual goals and targets in personal and professional life but only a few of us accomplish them. New Year’s resolution are also the promises, that we all make, whether of changing our lifestyle, starting a new hobby or expanding our business, but how often we keep them? Have you ever wondered, what stops us from achieving our goals? Have you ever pondered why our dream life is out of reach? How often opportunity strikes us, but our fears and doubts become the chains of our feet and stop us from grabbing them? Everyone wants to be successful, rich and famous, but why is that only few of us only succeed?

When we fail to accomplish our goals, we blame it on our destiny, but is it just the destiny that decides the course of our life?

Napoleon was a warrior who dreamt of conquering the world. Once he went to a palm reader and asked, “Do I have a fate line? Will I be victorious and conquer the whole world? The palmist held his hand, studied it deeply and said, “You don’t have a fate line.” He took out his knife, dig it deeply in his hand and made a fate line. He went away determined and conquered half of the world except India.

"If you want to be successful then don’t doubt your dreams."

Prioritization of goals: What do you want to do in life? You have got a life as a human and what do you want to accomplish in this life? Having a goal defines who we are and gives direction to our life. Goals give clarity and make decision making easier because while making goals we plan what we want to achieve and how we want to lead a life? Prioritizing of goals is essential as it gives time to plan strategies and act accordingly. So, when you are confused, what to do or how to achieve your targets then reflect on your goals and prioritize them. It will help you to gain self-confidence and you will be able to take better decisions with a balanced and optimistic mind.

Keep “What” and “If” separate: “What” and “If” are two beautiful words but when used together, then they have the power to play with your mind and scare you. Imagine an opportunity knocks your door and that's what all you prayed for. But then somebody asks you, What if you fail? A simple question will make you shudder and you will think twice whether or not to grab the opportunity. These are two words when used together have the power to cloud your mind with fear, doubts and apprehensions. So, when opportunity knocks your door ask yourself, “How much me and effort I can give?” Not What if I give all my me and efforts yet I fail?

Don’t doubt your faith: Faith on self is one such quality that can take you ahead in life. Even the world-class leaders say that if you have faith in yourself then the sky is your limit but if fear predominates you and your head is filled with doubts then even getting out of the house will make you shudder. So if you’re convinced that your goal is practical, smart and achievable then don’t be scared of challenges, don’t be deterred by the obstacles in your path and especially don’t doubt your faith and decision. Remind yourself, “Fire inside me is brighter and fiercer than fire outside me.”

Conquer your fears: You must be aware of Warren Buffett, the third richest man in the world. He is a stockbroker and at the age of 21, he started his career. Even though he was very good with numbers and stocks but one thing that made him sweat was public speaking. He was terrified of addressing a large audience, holding the mike and even introduce himself in front of a large audience. But, soon he realized that his fear is controlling his life and career. He decided to overcome his fear and purposely started to give lectures and address the audience. From small groups to students and finally public seminars that's how he conquered his fears and became the most celebrated public speaker in the world.

Friends, do you realize even the world's third richest man had fears? Even he doubted his skills and capabilities? Doubts and fears are part of life but if we stick to them and don’t try to walk past them, it becomes our identity and obstructs our success. So, if you are scared of taking a step forward to fulfill your dreams then beat your fear and take a leap of faith.

Stay determined: Determination is the key to success. One of the main ingredients of accomplishing a target is not hard work but persistent efforts to accomplish them. Being firm on the path, however difficult it is and even after repeated failures is what it takes to emerge victoriously. The only way to get rid of doubts and fears, the only way of making well-thought decisions, the only way to make the most of the opportunities that come your way is by being determined, focused and fearless.

Decision-making skills are not what we can develop overnight; it is a practice that needs to be done every day. One cannot overcome fears, apprehension and doubts in a day, it is a daily practice. But one thing that everybody should keep in mind is never making a decision while sad, angry, upset or happy. Decisions should be made with a calm and relaxed mindset only then you can have unbiased decision and plan for long term.

“It is in the moments of Decision your Destiny is shaped.”
“If you want to go fast, walk alone, but, if you want to go far then walk with your team.” Or “Unity is Strength” These are the quotes that we have heard in our day to day life and try to implement in the corporate world. But often people want to become a team leader or head of the department but they do not realize what it takes to manage a team. Remember, a strong team can move mountains, create records and history but alone even a team leader cannot do anything. Once there was a king who had a military of ten thousand soldiers and the enemies had a large army. But the king with a small military force won the battle because of his strong leadership and unity in the team. If you think about it, it’s impossible to defeat an army that has outnumbered you but with grit, determination and unity in the team, nothing is possible.

A team leader plays pivotal role in keeping the team integrated and motivated. A leader alone cannot work and take the team to the top or yield maximum results. Best of the companies like TATA, Birla, Reliance and even IMC is focusing on creating a strong backend team to support the associates and customers. Even a company cannot grow and become a renowned company all alone; it takes ceaseless team efforts of various departments in a single direction to bring fruitful results. Similarly, if our associates want to have a strong team and network across the country then, it is important for you to understand that you cannot be successful alone but along with the continuous efforts of the team, you can create a strong network in India and overseas. Once in a forest, there was a pack of lions that used to hunt together and animals of the forest were really scared of this particular pack of lions. The head of this pack, Simba was a ferocious hunter and was very fast. With time, he became boastful about his skills and arrogant towards his pack. One day full of pride, he declared that as he is the most powerful, strong and fast lion and because of him they hunt in large number, so he should have maximum share of the food. The pack was shocked by his decision and a meeting with elders of the pack was called to resolve the issue. When the elders told him that everybody is giving to the best of his capabilities and it is unfair on his part to ask for the maximum share. He was infuriated and left the pack to hunt alone.

When he started hunting alone, he attacked a herd of buffaloes but was shocked to see that those buffaloes were not scared of him, rather the herd attacked him. Then he ran to hunt the deer and was flabbergasted to see that they ran faster than him and he could not stop them alone. Hungry and tired, he went back to his pack and together they hunted. When united, they again regained control on the forest and Simba became the King of the Jungle. Moral of the story is: When we work together for a common goal, we all will win but alone we can’t do anything.

A leader should have team management skills and his focus should be to identify the talents of every individual and assign him work accordingly. It is a quality that will help the leader to keep his professional and personal life different and taken unbiased decisions that will help him lead by example and make a strong team. Only a leader who can manage his team can efficiently get the work done effectively and keep the team inspired.

Team Management Skills that will take you to new heights in your career:

1. As the title says, “Lead the team like a head, not a boss” Our attitude says a lot about us and while managing a team, it is important to have a check on your behavior and attitude. If you are high-headed and a micro-manager then it will not help you in the long-run. It is important to understand that people in your team are working to the best of their capabilities and they might have some weaknesses which need to be pointed out in a professional manner. So, your attitude will matter a lot while creating long-term relations with your team.

2. Meetings and discussions are an important part of team building and management. A team leader should indulge in open discussions with his team and seek suggestions from the team about the events and projects that need to be organized. It is the responsibility of the head to ensure that the discussions are conducted in a peaceful manner and everyone gets due chance to raise his/her opinion.

3. Right communication between the right people at the right time will lead to prompt actions. Remember, do not dominate your team members and make them feel inferior. Your behavior and communication with the team can make or break the team.

4. A team leader should make policies and process that are team-friendly. Every member of the team should be briefed about his duties and responsibilities, they should be allotted duties according to their caliber and most importantly, they should be comfortable discussing their problems with the head.

5. Transparency in the team is very important and miscommunication should be avoided. This is possible only when the team leader takes an active interest in the day to day activities of each and every member of the team and does not keeps ordering.

6. A team leader is responsible to boost the morale of his team and keep them united. Appreciate the team members publically who are performing exceptionally well. It will make not only inspire him to perform better but also other members of the team.

7. A good team leader knows that criticism should be done personally and Chinese whisper should be curbed. It is normal to have conflicts or arguments amongst the team members, but the head of the team should bridge the gap, resolve conflicts and create an amicable environment as internal conflicts, gossips and nagging will have a negative effect and ultimately break the team into pieces.

8. Team meetings and conflict resolution is an important and crucial part of team management. This will help to resolve differences and retain team members for long.

9. To conclude, a leader is not perfect but he is the one who will strive to make you perfect. A leader keeps the interest of his team above him and ensures that every member of his team is growing to its maximum potential.

Diabetes is a condition that impairs the body’s ability to process blood glucose. When production of insulin is less in pancreas then glucose level increases in blood. This condition is called Diabetes or in layman term is called Sugar. Due to changes in lifestyle, dietary habits, stress and environment, immune system of the body weakens leading to various diseases including diabetes. According to the report of World Health Organization there are more than 42 million people suffering from this lifestyle disorder.

Insulin is a hormone produced in pancreas and is required to convert sugar from food especially carbohydrates into energy. If the production of insulin is reduced and sugar is not converted into energy then sugar level increases in blood which has an adverse effect on the body especially eyes, heart, nervous system, knees, etc. Scientists have found there are 6 types of diabetes but mostly Type 1 and Type 2 diabetes is common amongst the patients and some suffer from gestational diabetes.

Types of Diabetes:

Type I diabetes: Also known as juvenile diabetes, this type occurs when the body fails to produce insulin. People with type 1 diabetes are insulin-dependent, which means they must take artificial insulin daily to stay alive.

Type II diabetes: It affects the way the body uses insulin. While the body still makes insulin, unlike in type 1, the cells in the body do not respond to it as effectively as they once did. This is the most common type of diabetes, according to the National Institute of Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases, and it has strong links with obesity.

Gestational diabetes: This type of diabetes occurs in women during pregnancy when the body becomes less sensitive to insulin. Gestational diabetes does not occur in all women and usually resolves after giving birth.

Symptoms of Diabetes
- Frequent Urination
- Increase in appetite and thirst
- Unexplained weight gain or loss
- Fatigue and laziness
- Blurred vision
- Itching on arms, legs and reproductive organs
- Kidney problems and delay in healing of wounds

Reasons
- Family history
- Weight
- Inactivity
- Age factor
- Gestational diabetes
- Consumption of alcohol, tobacco, soft drinks and other drinks leveraged with sugar.

Diagnosis
Diabetes can be diagnosed with a blood test or a urine test which can be done in two parts before meal and after meal.

- Before Meal Test: Normal blood sugar level is 80-120mg/dl but if the range is between 120-140mg/dl then it means the person is at pre-diabetic stage.
- After Meal Test: If after meal blood sugar is between 120-125mg/dl or less then it is normal but if the blood sugar level is 140mg/dl or more then the person is considered diabetic.

Treatment and Suggestions
- Have a balanced diet including fruits, salad and lentils in your diet.
- Avoid sweets and extra sugar.
- Do regular exercise, pranayama and yoga.

Treatment

How to boost immunity in winters?

Winter is the season of rejuvenation and replenishment. It is the time when our body is working hard to fight against the chilly winds and keep us warm. This is the time when our body is working hard to absorb nutrients, boost immunity and keep us healthy. Often people get sick in winters more than in any other season and cold, flu, cough, dry skin, etc. are common in winters. But, if attention is not given to the body then it can lead to chronic diseases. In winters, our activity level decreases and we do not leave any chance to stay home inside the covers and have a hot cup of tea/coffee. What we don’t realize is that this sedentary lifestyle can invite sickness and diseases as our immune system slows down leading to bacterial and viral infections.

How to strengthen the immune system? How can we prevent the attack of bacteria and viruses? Many people visit doctors and get prescriptions to boost immunity. They also opt for various allopathic medicines and products to shield against cold but according to research, it has been proved that an increase of cells in the body can be harmful. Rather than opting for synthetic products or medicines, there are many ways to boost immunity naturally in Ayurveda.

Winters are actually considered the best season to improve immunity naturally with the help of herbs and it will not have an adverse effect on the body. So, you need not visit the doctor to strengthen your immune system but with the change in lifestyle, eating habits and IMC products you can stay active and robust even in winters.

Once upon a time, there was a sage who lived in the outskirts of the village. Villagers used to visit him and seek solutions for their problems. It was a belief amongst the villagers that remedies and suggestions of the sage will always work and he is a reincarnation of God on the earth. Sage was very helpful and used to advise villagers, once a man went up to him and asked, “How can I be happy all the time?” This man didn’t want to feel sorrow or angry or any negative emotion and just wanted to have happy vibes all around. Sage thought for a while and asked the man to walk with him to the forest to know the secret of happiness.

While on the way to the forest, sage found a big stone and asked the man to pick this heavy stone and carry it along. The man obliged but after a while, his arms started paining, tired and sweaty, he asked the sage whether he can drop the stone as he is in pain. The kind sage smiled and nodded, after putting the stone down he had a breath of relief and felt elated. Then the sage said, “This is the secret of happiness.”

The man was confused and still could not understand. Then the sage explained to him, “When we carry a heavy stone in our hands for a minute then it is not a problem. But, if we carry for a while then our arms start paining and if we keep on carrying it without taking a break then our arm can even go numb. Similarly, when we think about our trials and tribulations for a short while then it is fine. But, if we keep on obsessing about it then it will become a burden and we will stay unhappy and stressed. Stress is a poison that takes away our happiness.”

So, if you want to be happy then don’t wait for a reason to be happy, be happy without any reason. Also, remember, stress and tension are like heavy stones that will not serve any purpose but will make you miserable.

During this time, he came across many companies that claimed to provide financial platform to support poor and needy but were all fake claims. Soon, he was promoted and became Superintendent of Police then SSP, Joint Director, Deputy Inspector General of Police (DIG), Inspector General of Police (IG), Additional Director General of Police (ADGP) and Director General of Police (DGP) in 2010. He was awarded Ph. D in Law on the subject of “Police and Criminal Justice Administration.”

When he became DIG of Punjab, he came to know about IMC and researched about the company. He was surprised to know that the company was actually doing something for the country and its citizens. He was intrigued to know about the company that it is the first Indian Direct Selling Company of India marketing Herbal and Ayurvedic products. It is the only company that helps people from every background to start their own business and believes in helping people grow. When he met Dr. Ashok Bhatia and got to know about his dream and vision, he felt that this company can make India a strong and developed company. With more than 250 indigenous products, they are ceaselessly working on the physical and mental wellbeing of every individual and offering products of high quality at reasonable prices.

At that time, he decided that after retiring from the service of Punjab Police, he will definitely join IMC. He said that Associates of this company are very lucky as they have got a company that works on health and wealth simultaneously. They have got mentors like Dr. Ashok Bhatia and Mr. Satyan Bhatia, whose only mission is to serve the society and help people live a healthy and stress-free life. They are tirelessly working to spread the wisdom of Ayurveda and herbal products in every village and city of the country so that citizens of our country can live a healthy and disease-free life. They are also giving business opportunities to millions of people especially women of our country and uneducated people. So, after retirement from the post of DGP, he contacted Dr. Ashok Bhatia and expressed his desire to join the company and he welcomed me with open arms.

Now, as he has joined IMC as the Chief Advisor of the company, he aspires to dedicate 33yrs of his experience to help the company to grow nationally and internationally. We IMCians take this opportunity to welcome Dr. Chander Shekhar, former DGP of the company in the company and hope for long-term association with the company.
